

Charlie Hillsman, '71, passes away

Charles E. Hillsman, '71, has lost his battle to stomach cancer. The Confederate reenactor general officer had seemed to recover after extensive surgery, but he collapsed and died at his home in Jetersville, VA on 17 December 2000.

The Hillsman home stood on the site of one of the last battles of the Civil War. His family home had been a hospital for both Federal and Confederate casualties.

Spring 2001

Dear Fellow Alumnus:

During the past two presidencies, the AMA Alumni Association has become an outfit that we can all be proud of. Under the excellent leadership of Gary Nicholson, '70, many of the successful undertakings that we enjoy today were started.

It was during Gary's time that Bill Klinck, '62, asked me to help him establish a new scholarship. That was done and today we have the AMA Legacy Scholarship program. Bob Bradford, '50, became the new editor of The Bayonet, and that has become the most important publication of our association. B. J. d'Orsay, '70, put us on the internet and began establishing our website. And what a website it is!

Gary finally stepped down to become my Vice President so that we could continue the progress. With new added effort, the progress continued and grew. Our first effort was to create an endowment fund that will help us underwrite our Association into the future. The Roller Society was established and Jeff Wenzel, '70, plus Bob Bradford through The Bayonet, promoted it successfully.

Since we cannot have our school, the Pentecostals have leased to us the Roller-Robinson home where we now house our alumni offices and museum. What a labor of love this became! I can not tell you how many hours, or how much money, have been given by Duke Fancher, '58, Steve Trent, '70, Bob Harris, '54, Terry Snow, '58, Gary Nicholson, Dave Conrad, '59, Rod Willey, '51, and Sue, Chief Cole, Don Studer, Frank Williamson, '60, and Ben Zinkhan, '60.

To fund the Alumni House, the President's Council was created. The paver program was initiated for the same reason. These two programs have raised thousands of dollars for construction and outfitting of the House.

Our latest effort involves the creation of a foundation. On November 2, 2000, the AMA Alumni Foundation, Inc. was created. This organization will carry our good name and works far past the time when all of us are gone.

We have accomplished far more than any of us dared to think we would. The AMA Alumni House/Museum is a loving credit to all that we are. It has been said by many outside the Association that The Bayonet is the best newspaper of any alumni organization in the country; it is that good. The scholarships are supporting our kids as well as cadets at VMI.

A special thanks to the Fort Defiance Mafia - Bob Bradford, Duke Fancher and Gary Nicholson. It is these guys who deserve our hearty thanks for going above the call of duty.

As a parting word — much has been done and we have been very successful, but much is still left to do. Please, please, continue to support the Association and the Foundation with your time and money.

I will be around to help in any way possible.

Goodloe Saunders. -57 President, AMA Alumni Association, Inc.

The fellows and gals who will play in the annual AMA Open on Friday 4 May probably like Willie Nelson's atttitude toward golf.

Willie bought his own golf course, and when someone asked him what par was, he answered, "Anything I want it to be. See that hole over there? It's a par 47, and I birdied it yesterday!"

The rules in the AMA Open are not quite that relaxed, but there are mulligans for sale, lies about lies, and an occasional floating ball for the water hazards.

Will you give us a couple of hours? For too long, too few people have carried the entire burden for putting on the annual reunions. Please think about how you can help at Reunion 2001, and give some of your fellow cadets, and their wives, a break.

There is much to do and so few hands to do it with. We really need your help this year. We will have a "Duty roster" at the registration desk. PLEASE SIGN UP!

If you can help, please contact Reunion 2001 Chairman Garry Granger, '71, at 972/355-4996, or you can e-mail him at: GGranger@FreshAdvantage.com. Or contact Frank Williamson, '60, at 804/673-9030, or e-mail: Frank bev1@aol.com. MANY THANKS!

AMA Korean War dead remembered

They call the Korean War "the forgotten war." Coming as it did between World War II and the Vietnam War, the Korean Conflict, as it was sometimes called, has melted the four decade background of armed conflicts around the world.

But AMA has not forgotten its brave boys and men answered President Truman's call to repel a June 1950 Communist invasion of South Korea. Before a truce was signed in July of 1953, 54,246 Americans had died, including two AMA boys. On 6 May at 11:30 AM, during Reunion 2001, a plaque will be unveiled in the AMA Alumni House/Museum in honor of those two brave young Augusta men.

Corps, was killed 7 October 1952 North Korea. His body was never recovered. Rosen was from Staunton where his brother. Victor. still lives. Victor Rosen has been invited to the unveiling of the memorial plaque.

Rahily Rhodes, Jr., '47, was a 1st lieutenant in 187th Company, Regimental Combat Team, US Army. He died at Kumhwa on 21 July 1953, just four days before the armistice was signed. He is buried at Forest Lawn in Richmond, the city where he grew up.

Sometime after the war, a memorial went up in the Front

Arch remembering Rhodes' death, but AMA officials had not yet been notified of Rosen's death. Now, 48 years after the war ended, a new plaque will honor both.

Class of '71 planning to fund museum software

The Class of '71 celebrates its 30th anniversary at Reunion 2001 by striving to underwrite the costs of special software for the AMA Museum, and a digital camera to assist in cataloguing the many artifacts being donated to

Garry Granger, the 1971 class agent, has set a goal of $2,001 to conform to their anniversary year. "I've told my classmates that we are trying to raise money for these two laudable purposes," says Granger. "I started the donations with $250, and the money is starting to come in from the other fellows."

Granger has written to his class and enclosed a return envelope asking for financial support for the software and the digital camera. "I think we should challenge each class to sponsor things from our wish list," he says.

In his letter, Granger talked about "the good ole days" at AMA, and promised that this reunion will be special to all in his class.

So far, he can list several classmates who definitely will be coming to Reunion 2001: Ron Melcher, Mark Femrite, Scott Rosensteen, Phil Meyers, Gary Understein, Tom Kubala, Kurt Benson and Joe Berman.

Melcher, Femrite, Rosensteen and Granger will be working the phones over the next few weeks to get their classmates back to Fort Defiance the first weekend in May!

50th anniversary

Starr, Pilley continue to search for '51 classmates

Efforts continue to locate fellows from the Class of 1951 who will be celebrating their Golden Anniversary at this year's reunion. Hap Starr and Frank Pilley, the class agents, have located some of the missing, and are hoping others will turn up in the next several weeks.

Starr confirms that he has hard commitments from several classmates: Jack Hodges, Kenny Day, Sid Taylor, John Core and Clay Santmyer. "I also look for A. B. Dabney, and hope that Phil Pelland and Bud Hargrave will attend," Starr says. "If we get enough of our guys back, we'll try to have some special function for them."

Hap has been particularly proud of the fact that he has been able to find some of his lost classmates without having to use one of those dadburned computers! He has sent letters to everyone from the class who is on the AMA mailing list, and Pilley has followed up with contacts of his own. Welcome back - 50 years later!

Vietnam KIAs to be honored at Reunion 2001

Nine names. Nine young men who once marched across the drill field at Fort Defiance, who went to class in the Big Room, who played football and lacrosse, who swam and ran track and fenced, who sang in the Glee Club, and made the Honor Roll.

Nine young men who went off to an unpopular war, and did not come back.

The nine Augusta alumni who were killed in action in the Vietnam War will be remembered on Saturday 5 May during Reunion 2001 when a plaque is dedicated to their memory at the AMA Alumni House/Museum on the AMA campus. The dedication ceremony will begin at 11:30 AM.

Goodloe Saunders, '57, Alumni Association President, himself a Vietnam veteran, said, "A group of dedicated alumni did careful and extensive research to find the names of all AMA men who were lost in Vietnam. Those of us who came back from the war were not exactly greeted with brass bands, which makes even more poignant the supreme sacrifice made by the AMA Nine, and many others."

Neil "Mac" MacIver, '61, was one of the very first Americans to die in Vietnam. He was killed by hostile small arms fire on 29 May 1963 while John Kennedy was still President of the United States.

Charles Vanderbilt Lang, '59, was killed in a helicopter crash on 12 September 1970, seven years later, and was the last AMA man to die in the war. A major, Chuck won the Distinguished Flying Cross with oak leaf cluster, the Bronze Star with two oak leaf clusters, the Air Medal with Ernest Beauchamp, '60, was killed by hostile small arms fire on 4 March 1967.

Walter Drosd, '66, died 28 May 1968 after having been hit by enemy artillery fire.

David Elman, '63, was killed by small arms fire on 30 March 1966.

Zane Glazar, '62, fell victim to an explosive device less than two months after he had arrived in Nam, on 23

September 1968.

Otis Gordon, '46, a major in the Air Force, crashed his fixed wing aircraft, and was shot and killed by North Vietnamese on the ground. He died on 19 November 1964.

Lawrence Greene, '61, was a first lieutenant in the Army, and died 30 January 1968, five days after his 25th birthday, from hostile small arms fire.

Charles "Moe" Moran, '50, was a Navy lieutenant whose aircraft went down at sea on 25 February 1965. He did not survive.

AMA alumni were asked to contribute toward the purchase of the plaque, and did so quickly and enthusiastically. To compile the List of Nine, a dozen AMA alumni painstakingly matched names on the Vietnam Wall in Washington, D.C.with names on AMA school records. Matches were made possible when full names, home towns and birth dates in AMA and Defense Department records conformed.

The war that wasn't a war, the war never declared by Congress, a struggle which tore America apart, nevertheless took more than 58,000 Americans, killed or missing.

Nine of them will be remembered again on 5 May at AMA.

From Recalls, we have attempted to come up with a list of undefeated and championship teams at Augusta for 1923 through 1975. Because of publication deadlines, there was little data on Spring sports. Check through this list, and amend or add to it. There were no yearbooks after 1975, so we really need to hear from guys from those years about any great AMA teams.

Top Augusta teams and players

We're looking for champs

Over the years, AMA has won area, state, district and national championships in various sports, but school records are sketchy. (see opposite page) There have been Augusta cadets who have set records or won in impressive one-on-one events, but we don't have a record of those winners either.

Reunion 2001 will honor every cadet and coach who participated in athletics at AMA over the years, plus our cheerleaders. Some sports went away (boxing, cavalry) and other sports became popular (lacrosse, soccer).

We need YOUR HELP in putting together a list of AUGUSTA STARS and great Augusta teams.

Were you on a championship team when you were at AMA? Even if you were not, do you know of a team that won a district, state or national championship while you were a cadet? (see opposite page)

Do you know of individual cadets who set records or otherwise stood out in some athletic event?

We have identified 15 sports (plus cheerleading) that were played over the years at AMA:

FOOTBALL SWIMMING BASKETBALL FENCING

BASEBALL
TENNIS GOLF

CROSS COUNTRY

Some sports had several levels of competition. Football had varsity, JV, Tiger, Peeps and Minnows teams over the years. Basketball had varsity, JV and Tiger teams. Baseball put varsity, Junior and Tiger teams on the field.

Did other sports have different levels of play? Did some of the non-varsity teams have undefeated seasons or produce stars?

Please let us hear from you - and hear from you soon! E-mail: AMABayonet@aol.com

In the winter issue of The Bayonet, we published the 60 year old photo, above, from the 1941 Recall. We asked if anyone knew who these fellows are.

Chris thinks the cadet on the far left is Nate Adams, but Mickey Gordon, '39, says it is "Hops" Adams (who later served on the AMA Alumni Board), and that Nate Adams is the fourth guy from the left, and no kin to Hops, but the brother of Howard Adams who was killed during World War II. "The second from the left is a fellow named McIntyre, I think," says Gordon.

Now comes Nate Adams, one of the men in the picture, and here's what he says: "These fellows were the Busted Aristocrats of the year [men who had held rank, but were busted for some infraction of the rules]. Hop Adams is the first man on the left, I am fourth from the left, then Bill Nichols. The guy on the right end is Ken Coote, or Little Coote. (His older brother we called Big Coote). Hops, Nick and I were in the Band and Major Manch had a lot of privates that year. By the way, we all got our stripes back in time for the Final Ball."

One final note: Nate thinks that the third man from the left is Tom Behrendt, but Tom didn't seem to think so.

This controversy may last longer than the mystery of who really killed President Kennedy!

Blue and White plans to bring trophy home

The cup belongs in Fort Defiance! That's the way the Blue and White netmen feel about the Hudgins-Roller Trophy, named in honor of the superintendents of Fishburne Military School and Augusta Military Academy.

At Reunion 2001, AMA will try to get the trophy back from FMS which won the second annual tennis match last year. AMA had won the first match in 1999, 2-0.

Frank Pilley, '51, Captain of the AMA team, says, "We played them hard last year," he says, "but we need to do better in 2001." Six players, including some newcomers, have signed up to play so far, according to Pilley. And he is looking for a few more players.

If you will play for Dear Old AMA, please get in touch with Colonel Pilley at 703/323-7111, or you can e-mail him at: fpilley@aol.com. The match will be played at the Staunton Country Club on Friday 4 May at 1 PM.

The renewal of the AMA/FMS rivalry commenced in 1998 during Fishburne's annual alumni weekend in Waynesboro. The match moved to AMA territory last year.

The trophy is named for Colonel Morgan Hudgins, longtime FMS superintendent, and General Charles S. Roller, Jr., AMA's beloved "Big Boy." Hudgins and Roller graduated from VMI 100 years ago. Both played on the great 1900 and 1901 VMI football teams with a man named George Catlett Marshall, Roller's roommate. Marshall was Chief of Staff during World War II and later served as Secretary of State under President Truman.

Superintendent's son writes about AMA's influence on Ron Green

A interesting letter recently arrived from Brett Green, the son of Ron Green, who was superintendent at AMA in 1981-82: "I was just nine when we lived in Fort Defiance, and many details of the school, I can't remember. But I can visualize that courtyard, and the amazing structure of the 4th annual sporting clay shoot at Reunion 2001

The 4th annual sporting clays shoot will be a part of Reunion 2001, according to Blaine Clarke, '72, The shoot is scheduled for 3 PM on Saturday 5 May at the Flying Rabbit in Harrisonburg.

Last year, Stride Coleman, '72, broke 38 of 50 clays to win the contest in 2000. Rick Ellett, '72, placed second with 36/50 and Clarke was third with 35/50.

Clarke noted that last year, all the awards went to guys from the Class of '72. "We'd like to challenge any other class or AMA group that thinks they can beat us," he says.

You can get more information by calling Clarke at 301/933-3966, or you can e-mail him at: nuroses53@aol.com.

No need to register in advance, but let Clarke know if you plan to shoot so he can reserve a place for you.

To speak at reunion

Jim Stillwagon, '67, won Lombardi, Rockne, Outland, plus All-American

James R. Stillwagon is his name, but his AMA friends called him "Rosie." An Ohio boy who came to play, and who made the other team's offense pay a stiff price for precious yardage.

Co-Captain of the Ohio State Buckeyes, he was consensus All American in 1969 and 1970. He won the first ever Lombardi Trophy as college football's top lineman in 1970, the year he also won the Outland Trophy and Knute Rockne Award.

Rosie played in two Rose Bowls for Ohio State, and in 1971 was drafted by the Green Bay Packers. "They still had slave labor practices in pro ball in the '60's and '70's," says Jim. "Once a team signed you, they could do whatever they wanted... and there wasn't anything you could do about it, except go off to the Canadian Football League."

Which is what Jim did, joining Joe Theismann at the Toronto Argonauts where he became co-captain and was All Pro-CFL player for his entire pro career, 1971-77. "Would I have preferred to play ball in the United States? Sure, but it just didn't work out that way."

In 1979, Jim was inducted into the Ohio State Hall of Fame. (Read more about him on the Ohio State homepage: buckeyepro.com/players/stillwagonj/) In 1991, he became a member of the National College Football Hall of Fame. And he has been a member of AMA's Hall of Fame since he first drove through the Front Gate in 1964.

Colonel Mal Livick remembers when he and Ed Clymore traveled to Mount Vernon, OH to attend "Jim Stillwagon Day." Livick says that Woody Hayes, Jack Tatum, and many other great Ohio State players came to Mount Vernon to honor Jim.

Jim's brother, Tom, '62, had come to Augusta earlier. Jim was attending St. Vincent DePaul in Mount Vernon, OH, "but I didn't get along too well with the nuns." Tom helped convince Jim that AMA was the place for him.

Jim went out for baseball, ran track, and played lacrosse under Major Hart. He excelled at every sport, except one. "I wasn't too good in basketball," he says, "so I gave that up for wrestling."

Jim Stillwagon, '67 Recall

In case you think that all Jim did at AMA was go out for sports, note that he was the Company Commander of Headquarters Company his senior year. He was on the academic privilege list his junior and senior years, and marched in the Roller Rifles. He also won All Military in 1966 and 1967.

BLITZING - Jim Stillwagon (55) smashes a Massanutten ball carrier in a 1966 game. This is the kind of bruising defense Jim played at AMA, Ohio State and in professional football.

Jim Stillwagon, 2001

His football playing days at an end in 1977, Rosie joined Jostens, the company that manufactures AMA class rings. Four years later, he formed Jim Stillwagon Enterprises, dealing in service awards and advertising specialties. 1985, a new company -Stillwagon Enterprises - was formed. In 1989, Jim added Star Lock Security Systems to his business world, a company dealing with high security locks for the vending machine industry. In 1991, he formed Gary Guard, Inc., making live line tools for the electric utilities industry.

Jim and his wife, Effie, have three daughters: Nicole, 27; Angela, 26; and Electra, 21. All went to Ohio State. Jim is active with the Central Ohio Diabetes Association because one of his girls has diabetes. He has also served on the board of the Open Shelter which takes in some 120 men each night.

The medals are presented to individuals who have made significant contributions to the AMA Alumni Association either through one very special act, or from a series of meaningful contributions. There is no specific number of medals to be awarded in a given year.

The medal itself is the traditional AMA medal suspended from a blue and white ribbon.

Williamsons donate Virginia Gentleman

At each reunion, Frank Williamson, '60, has a raffle on a bottle of Virginia Gentleman. In the first year, he raised $326; the next year, $606, and last year, $1008. This year, he and Bev will donate four bottles of Virginia Gentleman for the raffle and their goal is to raise at least $1500.

Your chance to win will be four times as great as in past years! Thank you very much, Bev and Frank, for all you do for AMA!

THE KIDZ WILL HAVE FUN AT REUNION 2001!

"What will there be for me to do there, Daddy?"

That's the question many AMA alumni will get from their younger children who are coming to Reunion 2001 with their Dads, Grandpas, and even Great-grandfathers.

Two more to buy rooms in Alumni House

Two more angels have appeared to help pay for the renovation of the AMA Alumni House and Museum.

Carroll Knicely, '46, made a contribution of more than $10,000 to "purchase" the Big Room, the room at the right when one enters the AMA Alumni House/Museum.

John Maragon, a Fishburne alumnus who orchestrated the renewal of competition between FMS and AMA on the tennis courts, also has given $10,000 to the AMA Foundation. The "Athletes at AMA" area will be dedicated to him.

Bob Plecker, '40, has sponsored Colonel Hoover's classroom; John Jansing, '43, bought the cadet room; Mickey Gordon, '39, underwrote the upstairs meeting room, dedicating it to the former presidents of the AMA Alumni Association; Duke Fancher, '58, is patron of the Fancher-Hamilton Room which contains uniform and other displays; and Bob Bradford, '50, and Nancy have sponsored Maggie Belle's parlor, the left front room in the house.

It is also a great opportunity to give something to the auction that you do not need any more. You loved it once, and someone will love it again. And in the process, good old AMA makes some money!

Last year, there were also dolls, framed prints, a Dutch oven, Matchbook toys and some unique AMA "things."

Big plans for Class of '61

Jack Steele is agent for the Class of 1961, and he is working hard to get his classmates back for their 40th anniversary reunion.

Jack says that Reunion 2001 will be his third in a row. "Each year gets better. It's a wonderful opportunity to renew old friendships and make new friends... and fun to talk about the good memories we have of AMA."

Jack is suggesting that his classmates stay at the Days Inn, directly across from the headquarters Holiday Inn. (See page 9 for hotel and motel phone numbers) "We can spend Saturday afternoon with the Class of '60 eating shrimp and oysters, and getting to know each other again," says Jack.

Jack got a letter out to his classmates in late January and has heard from several guys who plan to attend the reunion: Jim Crawford from Atlanta, David Sauers from Santa Monica, CA, Steve Speciale from Spring City, TN, Bill White from Belington, WV, Clay Willcox from Vinton, VA, Don Swanson from Panama City, FL, Ron Reigelman from Concord, NC, Ed Trott from Pigeon Forge, TN, and Ron Baker from Albany, NY.

Trustees named

AMA Foundation plans

THE AMA Alumni Association Board of Directors has approved the transfer of funds to the newly created AMA Alumni Foundation, and a Board of Trustees has been appointed to operate the tax exempt entity.

The AMA Foundation will function to include "charitable, scientific and educational purposes" which encompass the AMA and VMI scholarship programs, the AMA Alumni House/Museum, and

The Bayonet.

The initial foundation board of trustees will have seven members including Alumni Association President Goodloe Saunders, '57, and Treasurer Duke Fancher, '58. The by-laws of the foundation call for the president and treasurer of the alumni association to be voting ex officio members of the foundation board.

Other trustees are Rod Willey, '51, Frank Williamson, '60, Garry Granger, '71 Gary Nicholson, '70, and Bob Bradford, '50.

The Foundation is being structured so that contributions to it will be tax deductible. The AMA Alumni Association will continue to plan and execute the annual alumni reunions, and operate the PX in Alumni House and as a mail order enterprise. Fees and purchases paid to the Association are not tax deductible.

The Foundation will be able to raise money for the AMA Museum since it is open to the public without charge, and thus serves an educational function. The AMA Legacy and the VMI Scholarships are educational and charitable, while The Bayonet is considered educational.

The Association may lend support to the Foundation by the transfer of funds from PX and reunion profits. But to keep its tax exempt status, the Foundation is prohibited from giving financial support to any Association function, such as the annual reunion.

says that the Foundation "is the organization that will carry on the name and legacy of AMA." Bequests and other gifts to the Foundation can continue to grow while the proceeds from the principal will permit the Foundation to underwrite its programs.

There's a plan where you can help your family and yourself, plus help the Foundation! See page 40.

On Maryland National Champ team

Dick Nolan, '50, NY Giants star, head coach of both the '49ers and Saints

AMA's varsity football team went 8-1-1 in 1949, losing only to Fork Union, and tieing Manlius. The Blue and White outscored their opponents 235-76, and one guy in particular seemed to be all over the field.

In the game against Greenbrier, played in Lynchburg under the lights, Dick Nolan, '50, fell on an AMA fumble to help Augusta win 29-9. In the Manlius game, Nolan scored on the second play from scrimmage, the only TD of the day for AMA in the 6-6 tie. On Thanksgiving Day, Nolan broke off right tackle to score in a game where Augusta smothered Massanutten 37-7.

Nolan, born in Pittsburgh and raised in White Plains, NY, also played varsity basketball and varsity baseball, and ran track for AMA. And how did he end up in Fort Defiance? "I had a scholarship from Maryland, and Coach (Jim) Tatum thought I needed a year at AMA before I came to Maryland," Nolan recalls. So, at age 16, he came to Augusta to play for Coach Buck Chapman.

Dick was a CW though he lived in Big Barracks. Lo
Tommy Clements, '50, Captain of Headquarters Company, says that "Dick was a really good guy. A good athlete, yes, but beyond that, a really good guy and a very Colonel Frank Pilley, '51, remembers that Dick roomed with Bob Hantsch, 50, in Room 105, Colonel Roller's show room. "Dick was a very good student, and a very nice fellow," says Pilley.

A national title

In the fall of 1950, Dick enrolled at College Park to play quarterback, but he became both an offensive and defensive halfback for the Terps and played in the Orange Bowl against Oklahoma in 1953, where Maryland won the national title. The season over, Nolan was invited to play in the Senior Bowl, and later in the Chicago All Star contest.

There, a New York Giants scout spotted him and offered him a contract. In the 1954 season, Richard C. Nolan began eight years of dazzling defensive play in the National Football League, during which he helped the Giants win one National and two thought his playing days were over. One day, Landry asked Nolan if he wanted to suit up. Dick replied that he was 20 pounds overweight and out of shape, but he nevertheless asked Landry when he wanted him to play. "Tomorrow," Landry replied.

So Nolan went up against the Eagles in the Cotton Bowl, a game where the on-field temperature reached 107 degrees! "I had lost the entire 20 pounds by halftime," says Nolan.

He coached under Landry until 1968 when he got a fiveyear contract to turn the San Francisco 49ers into a winning team. In its 22 year history, the 49ers had never won a title in the NFL or in the old-All-America Conference. Jack Christiansen had just been fired after a 7-7 season, and the 49er President, Lou Spadia, wanted a winner.

A quarterback dilemma

Nolan had three quarterbacks to evaluate: John Brodie, George Mira and Steve Spurrier. He says that the best player on the 49er defense was Hall of Famer Jimmy Johnson (no, not the Dallas one). In 1970, Dick was National Conference Coach of the Year. In three straight seasons, Nolan led San Francisco to three National Conference Western Division titles. Three times, his old mentor. Tom Landry, and his Dallas Cowboys won the crucial game. "We lost to Landry and Dallas in 1970, the last game ever played in Kezar Stadium," says Nolan, The next season, the 49ers moved to Candlestick Park. In eight years at San Francisco, Nolan had a 54-53-5 record.

In 1976. Dick went to New Orleans to be defensive coordinator for Hank Stram. In 1978. Stram was fired and Dick became head coach of the Saints, where he stayed for three years. In his last season in the Big Easy. he was forced to discipline some players who retaliated by playing poorly. The Saints didn't win a game the rest of the year, and Dick was out of work. (Bum Phillips took Nolan's place, and the first thing he did was to get rid of the troublemakers.)

Dick then went back to Dallas to work for Tom Landry. When Landry was let go, Nolan stayed on for two more years to help Jimmy Johnson (yes, the Dallas one). Nolan retired for good after that.

Dick now lives in Trophy Club, TX, near Grapevine, on a golf course. His son was defensive coach for the Redskins this past season and is now an assistant coach with the Jets. Dick and his wife, Elizabeth, who he married fresh out of Maryland, have six children in all.

As we honor AMA's coaches and players at Reunion 2001, we pay a special tribute to Dick Nolan, Class of 1950 college star, pro star, and NFL coaching star!

Confederate re-enactor dies

Charlie Hillsman, '71, Southern gentleman

Charles E. Hillsman, '71, who is remembered at AMA as a drummer without peer, passed away at his home on a Civil War battlefield on 17 December, after a yearleng fight with stomach cancer. He was 50.

Hillsman portrayed General Robert E. Lee and led thousands of Confederate re-enactors on the anniversaries of the great battles at Gettysburg and Sharpsburg. Born in Richmond, he was totally immersed in his Southern heritage. His great-grandfather was one of 600 Confederate officers who were captured and later tortured. His family home at Sailor's Creek, VA was used as a hospital in the last battle of the Civil War, and was later given to the State of Virginia as an historic site.

Hillsman began taking part in reenactments in 1977 as a private, and worked his way up to the rank of Brigadier General. At the end, he commanded what is known as Longstreet's Corps.

Nick Syropoulos, '69, himself a 1st lieutenant Civil War re-enactor, says he remembers Charlie "for his great musical and drumming abilities at AMA. He was the best drummer in the Band (which he commanded in his senior year), and was lead drummer in the school rock bands."

Bob Mitchell, '70, recalls that he always hoped to play the drums as well as Hillsman did. "I am sure that he is drumming in heaven right now."

"Scootch"Melcher, '71, had called Charlie just a week before he died. "We talked about half an hour about the afternoons when we fenced together with Gordon Metz in Hoover Hall, and how Band Company made our Roller Rifles march so proudly in all our parades. Charlie was and is a big part of AMA."

Charlie's cousin, Rick Ellett, '72, and Bill Scarborough, '69, had visited Charlie and his wife, Winnie, in early December. "I was not at all pleased with his condition," said Scarborough, "but he wanted to get out and so we took him to a near-by town where they were having a festival and living history exhibits. Several of his re-enactor pals were there and he got to sit by the fire and talk with them. Rick and I wandered off so he could have this special time with his boys..."

During re-enactments, General Hillsman liked to walk through the Corps' encampment and Syropoulos often accompanied him. "He would introduce me to everyone he saw and say, 'We went to THE ACADEMY together!' That gave me a little extra credence... Charlie gave me the hobby of re-enactment which I will carry on in his honor. It will be hard to sit by the campfire and not hear his many stories. He did what he did to honor the memory of those gallant men who fought for what they thought was right... I know he is with the real soldiers now, and he will have as honored a place as they do."

Hillsman was the first and only Commander of Longstreet's Corps

By Winnie Wagaman

he tent fly over Confederate headquarters provides little relief from the sultry July sun. Leaning over a weathered map sketched by his engineer, Brigadier General Chuck Hillsman studies which way he will position his three divisions for the attack. He is surrounded by his staff, officers meticulously attired in authentically correct uniforms, their boots and buttons spit-shined. He is a perfectionist and a consummate worrier about every detail. Commanding more than 10,000 men - including 60 pieces of artillery - would be unnerving even for a contemporary officer in a real battle.

But this is where he shined.

Hillsman was the first and only commander of Longstreet's Corps, organization comprised of more than 30 living history groups with 1,000-plus members, that was founded in 1983 and existed until his death on December 2000. That positioned him as the longest-running commander of any Confederate organization today.

He began his career 23 years ago as a private when he walked on the field toting his musket at Sailor's Creek Battlefield. He was first a member of the 14th Tennessee of Archer's Brigade and later joined the 18th Virginia Infantry, Company G, at its founding. He moved up through the ranks. Five years after being elected commander of his corps, he was promoted to a colonel at the 125th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg in 1988. There, his photograph was taken and, the following month, appeared on the cover of U.S. News and World Report - an omen of his upcoming success.

Since then, he has had the honor to serve as overall Confederate commander of the largest re-enactments in the past several years including the 135th Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, held in July 1998; the 135th Anniversary of the Battle of Sharpsburg, held in September 1997; Grant vs. Lee, held in Culpeper, VA, in 1999; Chancellorsville, held in September 2000 at Fort Pickett, in Blackstone, VA; and the 136th Anniversary of the Battle of Cedar Creek in Middletown, VA, in October 2000.

he discipline of the military lifestyle was instilled in him at a young age. The son of a funeral director, Hillsman was enrolled at the Augusta Military Academy as a young boy. He was graduated a captain and company commander. But this experience is not what attracted him to the 19th century conflict. He is driven by a passion to preserve his family's heritage, as well as others who have gone before him.

"My family, as well as many others, sacrificed so very much. It seems that the very least we can do, or indeed, I consider it a duty, to not allow their sacrifices to be forgotten," says Hillsman.

The war touched his family in many ways. His great-grandfather, Captain James Moses Overton Hillsman, served with the 44th Virginia Infantry. Although wounded in three different battles, including Chancellorsville, he never left the field. He was captured at the Bloody Angle at Spotsylvania Court House and became one of the Immortal 600, a group of Confederate officers held as prisoners by the Union Army and tortured in retaliation. This despicable act was remembered long after the war had ended.

Captain Hillsman survived the ordeal and, after his parole at the end of the war, walked from Fort Delaware to his home in Deatonville, VA, wearing the same uniform in which he was captured. Little did he know what awaited him at home.

While he was in prison on Morris Island, SC, and Fort Pulaski, GA, the war raged throughout Virginia and, literally, came into his home. A fierce and bloody fight - the Battle of Sailor's Creek - had occurred in and around his family's home, now known as the Hillsman House. Built in 1770s by his ancestors, the house served as a Federal field hospital where the wounded of both Northern and Southern commands were treated. Blood stains remain on the floor, evidence of the carnage that cost General Lee 8,000 men, more than half of his army. It was the largest number of troops to ever surrender in a single action on the continent. Seventy-two hours later, General Lee his famous issued General Order No. 9 at Appomattox.

After the battle, the Hillsman family couldn't bear to live in their house, so they share-cropped the land until 1934 when they donated the estate to Virginia to be preserved as a state park.

In April 2000, Hillsman came full circle when he commanded the 135th Anniversary of the Battle of Sailor's Creek - the last major battle of the war in Virginia. He was at home there.

A pilgrimage last October to Fort Pulaski reaffirmed Hillsman's commitment to preserving his family's legacy. His great-grandfather's courage and bravery not only inspired him but also gave him faith in his ability to command.

"I regard any re-enactment as one giant memorial in motion. They reach more people than any other form of remembrance," he said.

His men were also an inspiration. Although he was a perfectionist, he was admired and loved by his troops for the discipline he instilled. His daily dress parade was a sight to behold. He drilled his men by the "book," The School of the Battalion, and was one of the few Confederate officers in re-enacting who knew these Civil War military maneuvers. He could recite

Historical Gold Medal

Last year, Hillsman was awarded the Jefferson Davis Historical Gold Medal by the Janet Randolph Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in recognition of his tireless work on behalf of Southern history. He was honored, in part, for serving as the overall Confederate commander of the largest re-enactment in modern-day history and his many public speaking engagements on the Immortal 600.

Off the field, Hillsman, 50, earned his living as a professional farrier. He was graduated from Virginia Commonwealth University with a degree in music, and was the drummer for a classic rock band. He was also a devoted father, raising his 18-year-old son, J.E.B., and was a member of the Amelia Masonic Lodge and Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Hillsman's wife, Winnie Wagaman, a 22-year reenactor who serves as a lieutenant on the staff of the 1st Virginia Artillery Battalion, lives in his Grandfather Hillsman's house, Hickory Hill, about four miles from Sailor's Creek. A professional journalist for seven years and the author of Civilian POW: Terror and Torture in South Vietnam, she has a doctorate from University of Maryland.

A tribute to Augusta

On a sleepless night before the funeral service for Charlie Hillsman, his wife, Winnie Wagaman, wrote these words about his affinity for AMA.

When the source of one's greatest joy is gone, we rely on God's graciousness and our memories for comfort. Never have I known anyone who has touched more lives in so many vast ways as Chuck Hillsman. Whether to you he answered to Charles, Chuck, Charlie, the General, Brother or "Hey, Daddy," it matters not. He was unsurpassed as a true Southern gentleman. It wasn't an act of part of his 19th Century impression; it was genuine.

In addition to his parents, the biggest thread in the weaving of his cloth was the Augusta Military Academy -AMA - and Colonel Paul Hoover. As Captain of Band Company, and leading saberman on the fencing team for AMA, Charlie developed discipline and friendships that followed him all his days, including his very last, here, on Earth. Bill Scarborough, who spent the last two weeks of Charlie's life with him, leads the boys of Augusta Military Academy in their memorial. These adult teenagers have a Harley Davidson Motorcycle Club, the AMA Roller Riders, of which Charlie is now an honorary member. They used to ride their scooters to our house to visit. They would drink lots of beer, reminisce about AMA, and the fish in our pond. Charlie treasured these men, especially Nick Syropoulos who served on his staff of Longstreet's Corps. These men were his second family growing up, and their bond is fraternal and forever...

Recognized by many for his cocked kepi, he was widely known for his story-telling. After the work was through, visitors to his camp couldn't help being mesmerized by his South-side accent as he told stories of his family and the homespun life around Deatonville. His signature story, "The Long Dog," and tales of his cook, Stinky's, horrible food always brought laughter.

Overwhelmed at AMA Museum

I had my first opportunity to visit the AMA Museum, and I was absolutely overwhelmed. First, we have the right people taking care of things. I could not have been more impressed with the quality of their work, or with the hospitality they showed visitors.

Second, we have made tremendous progress toward recreating what AMA life was really like, particularly in Colonel Hoover's classroom and in the cadet barracks room. If you are an alumnus and have not been to our museum, do yourself a favor and go there soon.

I plan to leave some things to the Museum in my will, and I'll bet you'll decide to do that too.

Some corrections

In the article about company and platoon cups in the last Bayonet, two of the names were misspelled.

The best company commander in 1936-37 was C. A. Clyborne, '37. He was my company commander and he was killed in action in World War II.

And the best company commander in 1937-38 was Larry Kurtz, '38.

Mickey Gordon, '39 Fort Defiance, VA

Lee Walker, '34

Here's the last word on my Dad. He was very sick for a very long time, and faced it with great humor and an oversupply of courage. The VA hospital was superb. They allowed him to go in comfort and dignity. I am convinced he could not have gotten better care anywhere. They face old men dying every day, but they wept with us for Dad.

He always enjoyed reading AMAMail and The Bayonet, and was never tired of sharing stories about AMA. I'm sure among the first to greet him on the other side was Colonel Roller, and many an instructor and cadet he spoke of so fondly.

I believe there are few blessings that match a Dad who loved AMA, the men and the values, and who shared them with his children.

Scholarship winner thanks AMA

I am a sophomore at Case Western Reserve University and this has been a challenging year. I changed my major from computer engineering to engineering physics which will enable me to get an engineering degree, but to continue studying physics. My AMA Legacy Scholarship has been a tremendous help. Some of the books in my course cost more than $100! I am going to use the concepts I have learned in college, and it makes sense to keep the books I use now as reference materials for the future, rather than selling them at the end of the semester. The scholarship money will enable me to keep these important volumes.

I am working on the campus newspaper and our paper won the 1999-2000 Newspaper Pacemaker Award at the Associated Collegiate Press national convention. I was glad to have had a part in this success.

I am honored to have received your scholarship.

We had the winning platoon in '48-'49

The last issue said there was no award for the Best Platoon in 1948-49. Well, there was, and it was won by the 2nd Platoon of D Company, commanded by Lawrence Fetner, '49. The platoon guide was Bill Twyman, '51, and the tech sergeant was Bill Hill, '50.

I was the 1st Sergeant of D Company which was commanded by Fred Shappee, '49, and Bob Eacho, '49, was 1st lieutenant.

Editor's note: The Best Platoon Cup on display in the AMA Museum has no entry for 1948-49.

An SMA boy who made good

My wife, Frances, has an older brother, now 80, who went to SMA for just one semester in 1937. Nelson Puett, Jr. says that he spent most of that one semester in the SMA guardhouse. He was sent home, and has never been back to Staunton. Instead, he enrolled at the University of Texas, and at 145 pounds and standing only 5'7", he played first string halfback. Today, he is one of the ten most wealthy Texans. He lives in Austin and buys and sells banks, and 40,000 acre ranches!

Remembering father

Charles Newton Hulvey attended AMA around 1902-1905. Later, he was on the faculty of a military school imn Roianoke and was Commandant of Tennessee Military Academy, where he met my grandmother. They purchased a home west of Charlottesville in 1921, now the site of University Village Retirement Community.

My grandmother told me that Charles' mother packed his suitcase and sent him to AMA with a five dollar gold piece, and a note to Professor Roller which said that was all the money they had for tuition. The note also said that if the five dollars was not enough to please send Charles Newton back home. He didn't come home until the school term ended, so I guess it was enough.

$2,000 AMA Legacy Scholarships planned

The AMA Foundation will grant two $2,000 AMA Legacy Scholarships to the direct descendants of AMA alumni in May of 2001. This year's awards were announced by Bruce Orenstein, '69, new Chairman of the Scholarship Committee.

The Legacy Scholarship Fund was created to help keep the name of Augusta Military Academy alive. Those eligible to receive scholarship grants are the children, grandchildren, great grandchildren, et al, of alumni (including natural, step and adopted) who are in an institution of learning beyond high school, and who are 25 years of age, or less.

Orenstein said that offering two scholarship awards for $2,000 "makes the honor all the more meaningful." Orenstein also said that the awards will be paid directly to the institution where the student is enrolled.

Applications are being judged by Stephanie Tayman, a Maryland educator who is not associated with the AMA Alumni Foundation.

Winners will be notified in April, and will be invited to attend the annual Awards Banquet on Friday 5 May during Reunion 2001.

The deadline for submitting completed scholarship applications is 17 March 2001

In June of 1901, three men graduated from the Virginia Military Institute.

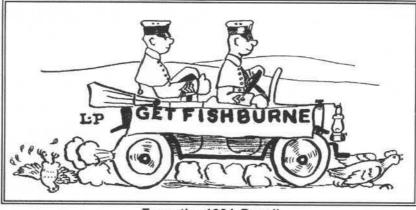

George Catlett
Marshall went on to become the Army Chief of Staff in World War II, and to serve as Secretary of State in the post-war Truman Administration.

Morgan Hudgins went home to Waynesboro, eventually to become the superintendent of the Fishburne Military School. And Charles Roller, Jr., the Big Boy, went on to become AMA's commandant, principal and superintendent.

Concomitant with the graduation of Hudgins and Roller from VMI 100 years ago, there began a renewed rivalry on the athletic field between AMA and FMS.

This year, Reunion 2001 is dedicated to all the cadets who went out for any sport while at AMA. Whether it was Peep or Pratt. In 1886-87, Fish-burne had a man named Frank Pappy and a brother named John. Frank was a pitcher. AMA had a wonderful pitcher named Barton Effinger from Harrisonburg and also a substitute pitcher, Andrew Warwick, who was a day scholar and walked three miles to school each day.

"...Fishburne and Augusta that year played three games. The first game was at Fishburne and Fishburne won. The second game was at AMA and we won. Then, a tie game was played on the baseball grounds at New Hope, with the game going on for 14 innings, stopping with a tie score.

"The catchers had no mitts then like they have now. They would generally have the local shoemaker put some shoe leather on the end of ordinary glove fingers. Each catcher varsity football, lacrosse, fencing, swimming, or soccer, or any of the other sports played at Augusta in the past century, the teams and players will be honored at this year's reunion.

During the reunion, the AMA-FMS rivalry will be continued on the tennis courts in the 3rd renewal of the Hudgins-Roller Cup. AMA won in 1999 and Fishburne won in 2000. THIS is the year to bring that trophy back to Fort Defiance!

Back to General Roller and Colonel Hudgins days at VMI: both played football in the VMI backfield, Hudgins at quarter-back and Roller at quarterback and halfback. The two, who played through "thick and thin" for VMI, then became rival players when they became player coaches at FMS and AMA. From 1901 through 1906, they played in the day of the flying wedge, long before the forward pass was used. The two also met on the baseball diamond at least twice a year with The Big Boy catching for AMA and Hudgins pitching for Fishburne. The first baseball game between the two schools probably was in 1898.

In 1954, General Roller wrote a letter to Fishburne Cadet James Battle, sports editor of the Fishburne school paper. Excerpts follow: "It may have been longer ago than 1882, but I remember seeing the account of a baseball game that was played on the Fishburne grounds. There were two Staunton boys on the Fishburne team, Hugh Kerr, Sr. and William would put a slice of beef steak in the glove so it wouldn't sting him. The first baseman had the same kind of glove. No one else had any kind of gloves at all.

"The two schools played constantly through the years, always two games and sometimes three games in a year.

"Colonel Hudgins... was a magnificent curved ball pitcher and a very superior batter. When he did not pitch, he played shortstop and was one of the best. Fishburne had one of the best batters on its faculty, named Bill Fetzer. All the preparatory schools in the South played their teachers in all athletics up until 1910, when they got together and agreed that the teachers could not play anymore.

"My brother, Thomas J. Roller, was a pitcher and I was the catcher on the AMA team for years. Both of us played as cadets and again as faculty members.

"I suspect that the relationship between Fishburne and AMA has continued longer than any other preparatory school in the whole country... Baseball outranked all the other sports in the preparatory schools of Virginia up to about 1930. Baseball then went into decline behind football, basketball, boxing and swimming."

SPOTLIGHT on ALAN DIAMONSTEINGoing for Lieutenant Governor of Virginia

In January, Virginia State Delegate Alan Diamonstein, '48, strode to a waiting microphone in Newport News to announce that he was a candidate for lieutenant governor, and that his campaign would be "positive, spirited and fun."

Diamonstein has been a Democratic member of the Virginia House for 33 years. As lieutenant governor, he would have the official responsibility of presiding over the State Senate. The lieutenant governor's position also is viewed as a stepping stone to running for governor.

Virginia is one of two states (New Jersey is the other one) that elects its state governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general in "off years." In 2001, these top posts will be on the November ballot in the Old Dominion.

But first, there is the Democratic Primary on 12 June. At least two other Democrats also seek the nomination. Diamonstein estimates that the primary will cost a million dollars, and he will need an additional three million dollars if he earns a spot on the 6 November ballot.

Came to AMA in 1946

Al lived in Hampton when he came to Augusta in the fall of 1946. He plunged into the cadet life, joining the swimming team and going out for JV football. Under Coach Carl Becker, the JVs went undefeated in the 1947 season. He was consistently on the Honor Roll, wrote for The Bayonet, and played in the Band.

He then entered the University of Virginia, but had a tour of active duty with the Air Force before returning to Charlottesville to get a BS degree in commerce. He then earned his LLB degree at the University of Virginia Law School. He now holds honorary Doctor of Laws degrees from the College of William and Mary (1997) and from the Christopher Newport University (1990).

He is a senior partner in the law firm of Patten, Wornom, Hatten and Diamonstein in Newport News.

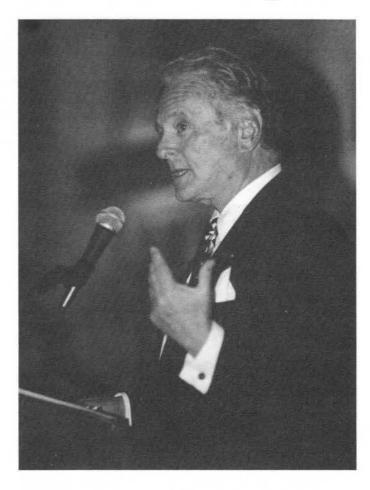

His long service in the Virginia House now sees him

Al Diamonstein, '49 Recall

chairing the House Democratic Caucus. He was Chairman of the Virginia Democratic Party in 1982-86, Chairman of the Southern Democratic Caucus from 1984 until 1992, and has been a member of the Democratic National Committee Executive Committee.

Diamonstein currently serves on the Rules, Finance and Counties, Cities and Towns Committees as well as being Co-Chair of the General Laws Committee. He also serves on the Jamestown-Yorktown Board of Trustees and on the Joint Commission on Health Care.

He is on many community boards and committees: The Mariners Museum, Washington Airports Task Force, CHIP of Virginia, National Council of State Legislatures, and the Pamela Harriman Foreign Service Fellowship.

President Clinton appointed him to The President's Legislative Council and to the Board of the National Housing Partnership.

Many honors and awards

His honors and awards would fill pages. A lifetime membership in the PTA, the Hampton-Newport News Community Service Hall of Fame, the Virginia School Boards Award of Excellence, a life member of the Jaycees, the Brotherhood Citation Award from the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

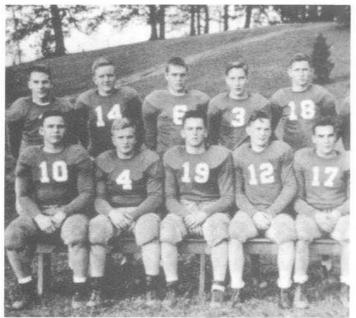

Diamonstein says that he is running for lieutenant governor for three reasons: to advocate for a long-term investment in education; to work for fiscal responsibility in Virginia; and to help restore the kind of "civic responsibility and participation that has marked the greatest achievements in Virginia's history."

As he made the announcement of his candidacy, Diamonstein was surrounded by his family. His wife, Beverly Hicks Diamonstein, and their four children, were there. So were his grandchildren who brought a smile to Grandpa's face when they giggled and rolled in the floor.

Diamonstein historically has done well in his largely Republican Newport News district. But his influence was diminished after Republicans gained control of the legislature in the 1999 elections. He lost the Chairmanships of the Virginia Housing Study Commission and the Higher Education Subcommittee, and was removed from the powerful House Appropriations Committee.

Al Diamonstein seeks higher office, he says, "because I'm still passionate about the issues I was working on."

Board convenes The AMA Alumni Association Board of Directors has authorized the transfer of funds to the newly created AMA Alumni Foundation, and has approved a sevenmember board of trustees for the Foundation with the President and Treasurer of the alumni association to be voting ex officio members.

Meeting in the AMA Alumni House on 20 January, Treasurer Duke Fancher, '58, reported the purchase of two more rooms for the house. Carroll Knicely, '46, and John Maragon, a Fishburne alumnus, each contributed $10,000 toward the renovation of the house.

Alumni President Goodloe Saunders, '57, asked for volunteers to help staff the AMA Museum and with Reunion 2001. Several board members offered their services to man the house. Rod Willey, '51, will coordinate house volunteers.

John Henderson, '69, assumed the duties of Planned Giving Coordinator last September, and six new Roller Society members have since made pledges exceeding $700,000. Further plans will be discussed during Reunion 2001.

Registration, the silent auction, the Cinco de Mayo and Kentucky Derby parties, food service, running the PX - think about where you can help. We'll have a sign-up sheet at the reunion registration desk. We REALLY do need your help.

WHOEVER THOUGHT GIVING MONEY AWAY COULD BE SO REWARDING?

Don't let the name fool you!

A charitable remainder trust does provide support for the AMA Foundation.

But, prior to transferring assets to AMA, you and your family can get income for life, tax savings, and estate planning advantages!

Created by Congress in 1969 to encourage philanthropic giving, the charitable remainder trust, or CRT, is a powerful wealth transition tool for many thousands of families.

The popularity of this trust comes from the great financial and estate benefits it offers.

With a charitable remainder trust, you can:

AVOID capital gains taxes on the sale of highly appreciated assets, such as stock or bonds.

Because the trust is tax-exempt, you can sell the assets inside the trust without incurring immediate capital gains taxes.

INCREASE spendable income from unproductive investments while diversifying those investments (See column at right on how you can receive income from a CRT)

QUALIFY for a current year charitable income tax deduction.

Even though AMA and any other charity you name will not receive your contribution until a future time, your irrevocable gift qualifies for a federal (and usually a state) charitable income tax deduction in the year you fund the trust.

REDUCE or eliminate estate tax liabilities.

Assets transferred to a CRT are not counted as part of your net estate. Thus, a CRT can be a useful estate tax saving tool for you if your estate is above $675,000 for 2001.

MAKE a substantial contribution to the AMA Foundation and any other of your favorite charities. After your CRT helps you and your family with income for life, and helps your estate, it will help AMA and enable you to leave a lasting legacy!

HOW INCOME IS PAID FROM A CHARITABLE REMAINDER TRUST (CRT)

With a charitable remainder trust, you have the ability to select the way in which income is paid from the trust.

Generally, you and your spouse can get income for the rest of your lives.

Income interest can either be annuity interest (Charitable Remainder Annuity Trust) or unitrust interest (Charitable Remainder Unitrust).

For example, if you were to establish a $100,000 annuity trust with a payout rate of 7%, you and any other income beneficiaries would receive $7,000 annually.

Using the same example for a unitrust, the first year's payout also will be $7,000, but beginning the second year, the trust's assets would be revalued before determining your payout amount. So, if the assets in your trust increase from $100,000 to $120,000, you would receive $8,400 a year.

Keep in mind, too, that with a unitrust, investment performance of the trust's assets could decrease the payout amount in any given year.

HOW DO I LEARN MORE ABOUT ALL THIS?

Your fellow alumnus, FRANK WILLIAMSON, '60, is willing and able to answer your questions. You can call him at 804/673-9030; e-mail him at: Frank bev1@aol.com; or write to him at: 8134 E. Greystone Circle, Richmond, VA 23229 Participation will entitle you to membership in THE ROLLER SOCIETY!

HELP YOURSELF FIRST — THEN, HELP AMA!

What about my kids?

What are your priorities? Likely at the top of the list is taking care of your child or your children in your estate. How can you do that at the same time you are making a commitment to help AMA?

As explained in the columns to the right and left, a Charitable Remainder Trust (CRT) can give you income for the rest of your life (and that of your spouse, if you wish). You get an immediate charitable contribution deduction on your income taxes. And at the end of the trust's term, the remainder goes to AMA, and any other charities of your choice.

So how do you replace the inheritance that your child or childen would have received if you had not been so charitably inclined?

Let's take the example at left of a $100,000 CRT. In a 55 percent estate tax bracket, $100,000 passing to your child or children would be worth only $45,000 to them.

While there are several ways to replace the value of your gift to AMA, life insurance is one of the best ways. You give your child or children enough money to buy and hold a $100,000 insurance policy on your life (or the lives of you and your spouse in what is called a "second to die option.")

The policy names your child or children as the beneficiaries, and they will receive the $100,000 face amount tax free when you are no longer here.

You don't need to leave your loved ones "high and dry" when you make a sizable donation to a charity. Life insurance can be used to provide an inheritance for your loved ones, replacing the value of your gift to AMA and any other charities.

Talk with your tax advisor!

When you give cash, stock, or other property to the AMA Foundation, you:

SAVE taxes

SUPPORT AMA

RECEIVE an income for life

AMA gave me more than I bargained for!

Friends and alumni of AMA have found many ways to help us. One of our alumni faithfully sends $25 a month, just like clockwork. One alumnus has authorized AMA to debit his VISA account for $500 twice each year for the next five years. Still another has given us appreciated stock which we have sold, and for which he will get a nice tax deduction.

Fellows who volunteer their time at the House also make regular donations. Some look for things we need, and buy them for us. Others just drop off a check from time to time.

The need continues as we pay ourselves back for the money borrowed from the various AMA Alumni funds to renovate your AMA Alumni House/Museum.

Please consider how you can continue to help. If your name is not on this list for 2000, get it on the list for 2001!

We thank you sincerely!

From Colonel Hoover's attic

After Colonel Hoover passed away, family members turned over to the Alumni Association many boxes of photos and slides which had been stored in the colonel's attic. Most had no information to identify them.

Who are the fellows posing with the cannon, below?

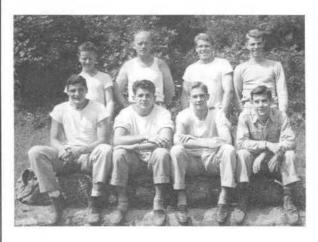

And who are the two cadets who are enjoying a glass of punch at White Hall, left? Can you help us? e-mail us at: AMABayonet@aol.com; FAX to 925/ 736-4961; or write 142 Silver Pine Lane, Danville, CA 94506

In the last issue, we ran the two photos

Colonel Mal Livick and John Arthur, '75, were the first of many to identify the cadet captain, right, as Tom White, '77, from North Carolina.

In the last Hoover's Attic, we misspelled the name of Gordon Ambler, '42. Sorry about that!

Rooms for sale in the AMA Alumni House/Museum!

On page 22, you'll see who already has stepped up to the plate and "purchased" rooms in the house. It is this kind of commitment that has enabled us to turn our Alumni House/ Museum into the Gem of the Shenandoah Valley.

For which areas are there sponsorships available?

The Hall of Honor where hang the memorials to AMA's dead in 20th Century wars. The AMA Family area where the Rollers are honored. The Administrative Office, the nerve center of the AMA Alumni House/Museum. Memory Hall, which exhibits plaques that have been unearthed on the campus and profiles AMA Alumni Medal recipients.

We will be glad to discuss room sponsorship with you and determine to whom you would like to dedicate the room. For more information, call Alumni House at 540/248-3007.

A great start for the year! Thank you!

Class of '81 to celebrate 20th

Major Todd Livick, '81, has been busy trying to corral his classmates to get them back for the 20th anniversary of their graduation from Augusta.

Todd, stationed at Fort Riley, KS, has contacted all the members of his class who are on the AMA mailing list.

"Billy Berrora of Flushing, NY, Tony Beneventi from Houston, Jorge Chulia from Venezuela, and Rick Clary from Axtell, Texas all are planning to come to Reunion 2001," Todd reports. "It's going to be a weekend of renewed friendship, some good Southern hospitality, and a chance to see the new AMA Alumni House/ Museum."

Livick asks anyone else who is in the Class of '81 to contact him by e-mail at livickt@riley.army.mil, or at 785/717-2766.

He also asks if anyone knows of a fellow from the Class of '81 who might not be on the AMA mailing list to please get in touch with him as soon as possible.

Now, a score of years later, the Class of '81 will be coming home to Augusta Military Academy.

Bring your good "stuff" to the SILENT AUCTION!

Please look around to see what you can donate to the Reunion 2001 SILENT AUCTION.

Last year, we raised $1500! We want to top that this year!

When you register at the reunion, they can tell you where to check in your things. Thanks!

That's how many days the AMA Museum will be open between 1 April and 31 October. That means we will be needing volunteers to staff the house.

We have NO paid employees. If you live anywhere in the area, we really need YOU!

Can you give us a day a week? A day a month? Part of a day each month? Please get in touch and let us know when you can be available. Phone the AMA Alumni House/Museum at 540/248-3007. Thank you!
